

THE CLINIC GALLERY

To achieve a brighter, more refreshed look in the eye area, this 56-year-old patient sought Charlotte, NC plastic surgeon Robert Graper, MD for an upper and lower blepharoplasty.

Sugar Land, TX plastic surgeon Peter Chang, MD performed an upper and lower blepharoplasty, browlift and laser pearl fractional skin resurfacing to give this 62-year-old patient an eye rejuvenation.

To restore her "tired-looking eyes," this 55-year-old patient sought Westborough, MA facial plastic surgeon Min S. Ahn, MD for an upper blepharoplasty and a lower eyelid pinch blepharoplasty.

La Jolla, CA plastic surgeon John D. Smoot, MD combined a bilateral upper and lower eyelid blepharoplasty using an anterior approach to remove excess skin on the upper and lower lids of this 63-year-old patient.

An upper and lower blepharoplasty, along with laserbrasion resurfacing of the lower eyelids, was done by Encino, CA plastic surgeon George Sanders, MD to refresh and restore this 55-year-old patient's eye area.

To eliminate the fat pockets under her eyes, this 39-year-old patient saw Smithtown, NY facial plastic surgeon James Marotta, MD for an upper and lower eyelift paired with microfat transfer to the lower eyelids and cheeks.

This 50-year-old patient sought New York plastic surgeon Mokhtar Asaadi, MD to revive her look with an upper and lower blepharoplasty, which addressed upper lid hooding and under-eye fullness.

To better match her eyes to her true age, Palo Alto, CA facial plastic surgeon Jill L. Hessler, MD performed a lower blepharoplasty with fractional laser resurfacing on this 29-year-old patient.

Individual results may vary. Undergoing this treatment does not guarantee these exact results.